POWDERLY DENOUNCES THE BOY-We have been milling for sixteen years; when we commenced most mills used one set of men for eighteen hours per day. We commenced and have continued the twelve-hour rule, allowing the day men one hour for dinner. We paid liberal wages, and some of our brother millers complained to us of the twelve hours and our voluntary increase of wages. We have yet some of our men with us who were with us when we commenced. No complaint has ever been made to us about wages or hours. Yet on the 25th of August, 1884, we received a letter from the Knights of Labor requesting us to use all new harrels in packing our flours. This request afterwards became a demand, and we refusing to surrender our liberty were boy-cotted. Remember, this demand was not made by any persons in our employ, but by outside partles. First, hand-bills making outrageous statements were circulated, of which we took no notice; finding this did not ruin us, committees of the Knights of Labor visited our customers, and with the threat of boycott frightened some, whom we lost. Finding this persecution becoming serious, we published various articles in The Star in our defense. But in none did we attack the K. of L. or even use their name. This persecution has continued up to the present time. Our wagons have been followed, and various methods have been used to find out who bought our goods. Ice-wagon drivers and others have threatened that they would strike if their employers bought our feed. Even the bakers'-wagon drivers have threatened that if the stores bought any of our flours their employes would not sell them their bread. We have born, with this, persecution long enough. We now request an grovers and others to whom threats are hereafter made to be particular to get and report to us their names so that we can prosecute in the Police and Criminal Courts all persons attempting to do us an injury. By giving attention to this our miends will confer on us a tavor. We hold that every American citizen, native or naturalized, snould have the liberty "To sit under We have been milling for sixteen years; when we

THE PRESIDENT'S REAL ESTATE PURCHASE. President is interested in the purchase of the Green estate, but not through a real estate agent, and the knowledge that the owner of the property has received a deposit of $200 for its purchase, and that the title is being examined before final payment, leaves little room to doubt that the President will soon be the owner or part owner at least of a comfortable country residence.

THE FISHERIES QUESTION.-It is learned at the State department that the British minister has not at any time endeavored to secure the appointment of a fish commission to arbitrate the fishery troubles, and that the recommendation in the President's message that such a commission be appointed is all that the administration has done or expects to do in the matter. make very little headway under sail.

A MISCONCEPTION AND HOW IT AROSE .-There appears to have been a ludicrous misconception throughout the country in regard to the recent reappointment of Gen. Horatio C. King, of New York, as commissioner of the Court of Claims-a commission he has held for several years without having been once called on to act under it, until a week ago when, finding it had expired, he asked that its renewal be mmediately telegraphed to him, that he might e prepared to take testimony the same day. The Matthews Nomination. MR. RIDDLEBERGER'S RESOLUTION RULED OUT of deeds of the District was discussed at some but no action was taken. There were six members of the committee present—Messrs. Ingalls Spooner, Riddleberger, Harris, Blackburn and Brown—and they were evenly divided upon the question. No substantiation of the charges made against Matthews has been received, and some of the members did not think there was any occasion for further delay.

Mr. Riddleberger was willing to take action upon the case, and he notified the committee that he intended to offer a resolution to publish all the papers on file relating to Matthews. In the Senate he proposed a resolution directing that all the papers relating to the case be taken from the committee files and printed.

Messrs. Edmunds and Miller said that resoation could not be received in open session. Mr. Riddleberger was willing for it to go over.
Mr. Miller—It cannot be received.
Mr. Riddleberger (very emphatically)—It can,
and it goes over until to-morrow. The chair ruled that objection having been made the resolution was not in order. A REQUISITION FROM GOV. LEE,—To-day Officer Snead, of Nortolk, Va., arrived here with a requisition from Gov. Lee, of Virginia,

The Senate District committee, at their regular meeing to-day, directed Mr. Harris to report favorably the House bill relating to the bonds of executors, and to move its passage as a substitute for the Senate bill to the same effect, passed several days ago; the latter to be recalled Mr. Harris reported the bill and it was taken up. Mr. Hoar thought it ought to provide more clearly that additional bonds should be required when a legatee or distributee demands it as rotection to his interest. Mr. Edmunds said he would move to add another section, to provide that when a testator shail devise all hi real estate, that will shall remain in binding force, even though the property be changed. He said that in the District, when a person sells real estate and buys more in its place, he is will in existence specifies that all of which he may die possessed shall go to parties named. His object was to make a will, thus devising all real property, continue in full force and effect notwithstanding changes in the property. Mr. Edmunds said that a judge of the Supreme Court, who sometimes sells a piece of real estate and buys another, told him that he carried a blank will in his pocket all the time, and whenever he made any change in the character of his real estate he recorded a new will, in order to make it binding in law. Mr. Harris said he would let the bill go over, as he believed that the bill recently passed by the Senate was in better form than the House bill. The bill provides that where a testator so requests no bond shall be required of his executors except such as may be necessary to cover the debts of the estate. PURCHASE OF PAINTINGS. Mr. Wilson submitted a resolution in the House directing the Secretary of war to inform the House what progress, if any, has been made in the erection of the fishways directed to be placed at the Great Falls of the Potomac, under the act approved July 15, 1882; also, what amount of the sum appropriated for said fishways has been expended, and how much is yet sum heretofore appropriated is sufficient for such erection. THE PROPOSED STATUE TO EDWIN M. STANTON Mr. Boutelle has introduced a bill in the House directing that a monumental statue in bronze of the late Edwin M. Stanton be erected in front of the War department building, to commemorate his illustrious public services as Secretary of War between 1862 and 1867," and that a commission, consisting of three senators and three Representatives, to be appointed by the presiding officers of the respective houses, shall contract for the monument. The bill provides that the statue shall be of heroic size, and shall be cast, if practicable from condemned cannon captured or used by the Juited States during the war. It also approoriates $50,000 to pay for the statue. This bill seems to stir the ire of some of the democrats. In fact, some of them say it was introduced for the purpose of provoking debate on war issues.

He pro duced a glass of solution of arsenic and challenged the preacher to drink it, which he had stated in his sermon that he could do without harm. The preacher retused. Claybaugh branded him as an imposter, and the meeting broke up with a great tumult, during which clubs, stones and other missiles were used on the missionaries. The Building Trade Lock-out. THE EMPLOYERS OFFER NINE HOURS, BUT ARE FIRM AGAINST THE CARD SYSTEM. A meeting of the representatives of the em-tions altogether. It was explained that this was not the intention. The only thing aimed at, it was stated, was to remove interference with the liberty of either the men or the bosse so that if two or three men should be employed to work on a building and they should happen not to belong to the unions, then all the rest of the men would not be compelled to leave the building; neither would the men be compelled to join the unions nor the bosses be forced to inquire if men asking employment were union ien. The members of the union could have their cards as now, and there would be no discrimination against union men, nor any attempt to fill a building with an inferior grade of men at a lower rate of wages. The union rates of wages would be maintained, and all the real advantages of organization would be preserved; only the causes of annoyance and friction between the men and the bosses would be removed. The above is substantially the understanding reached by the conterence, and the members separated with the intention of reporting this basis of compromise favorably to their respective organizations. AT THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR HEADQUARTERS to-day there were no signs of a change in the situation. Members of the committee said the men were still as firm as on the first day of the lockout.
